

Publication ethics

Journal of Bio Innovation, ISSN (O):2277-8330, is dedicated to follow steps and guidelines of good publication practices on different steps of publishing process. We request all of our editors/reviewers for following standard publication ethical guidelines.

Ethical guidelines for Authors

Respected authors, before submitting manuscripts follow the mentioned ethical guidelines. We also recommend our authors to follow the COPE (www.publicationethics.org) guidelines of Manuscript submission.

*The concerned research work is completed under your authorship or guidance, and you finally reviewed the manuscript before submission.

*The concerned manuscripts are not under consideration for publication in another journal or under review process elsewhere.

*The concerned manuscript is not published elsewhere previously by you.

Peer Review Process

As per publishing process, submitted manuscripts are reviewed by peer reviewers (we recommend them for fair review process with objective and logical comments.) Reviewers must accept the manuscripts only when it matches with your area of expertise.

Plagiarism

This is one of the important parts of submission of manuscripts, many authors simply copy data and details from another published manuscripts and submit it for publication which is dreadful behavior in the world of research and academics. I request all the authors to be sure that you are going to submit Research works/Data/Details prepared under your guidance and ownership manuscripts. Journal of Bio Innovation have right to take any action for any plagiarism related issue.

Rejection Policy

In case authors are found unable to follow any of above instructions and policies then the manuscripts will be rejected on any stage of publishing process.

Proofs of Copyright and Transfer

All the authors are requested to provide well signed proof of reading/Copy right form as a proof of his/her Manuscripts, going to publish in Journal of Bio Innovation. Apart from providing authorship certification, author needs to submit copy right transfer form which is effective after acceptance of article for publication in Journal.
